The Virtue in Thrift.

We should say that the virtue in thrift, so far as there is virtue in it—and we have met with it in some of the meanest as well as some of the noblest of mankind—lay in the development which the practice must give to the power of self control. There are many higher occasions for the exercise of that high quality, but there are none, except in the case of ill tempered men, which recur so frequently. All men naturally like to spend, and to be thrifty the resolve not to spend whenever expenditure is avoidable must be acted on 20 times a week and will in a short time exercise a perceptible influence on the character. The man learns to resist momentary temptation and becomes therefore a stronger man, just as a white man becomes more enduring from the constant wearing of clothes. The weight of clothes is seldom great, but the perpetual habit of carrying them almost imperceptibly strengthens the muscles. The thrifty man is more master of himself than the extravagant man and in self mastery is one most fertile seed of virtue.

But thrift in itself is not virtue any more than a plow is agriculture or mathematics accuracy of thought. The best test of this is that a Christian teacher who in England would inculcate thrift would in many another country be compelled to condemn it as of all qualities the one which most interfered with freedom of the spirit. Now a virtue which is a real virtue and not merely an expedient practice must be as independent of national manners as of geography. No doubt in England the use of carefulness needs to be inculcated, the typical Englishman, if he wants sparrows, being ready to shy at them with half a crown, but it should be taught as arithmetic is taught, not praised as a Christian virtue.—London Spectator.

Twain as a Lion.

Mark Twain, in "More Tramps Abroad," tells how he lied out of a controversy about Scottish dialect. In a discussion with some strange Scots he remarked that the peasantry pronounced three "three," and not "thraw." "There was a moment of astonished and ominous silence; then weather ensued. It was a bad defeat for me. I promised to remain so, but I had a saving thought. While the storm was still raging I made up Scotch complete and then spoke up and said: 'Very well! Don't say any more. I confess defeat. I thought I know, but I see my mistake. I was deceived by one of your Scotch poets.' 'A Scotch poet! Oh, come! Name him.' 'Robert Burns.' It is wonderful the power of that name. These men looked doubtful—but paralyzed, all the same. They were quite silent for a moment, then one of them said, with the reverence in his voice which is always present in a Scotchman's tone when he utters the name, 'Does Robbie Burns say—what does he say?' 'This is what he says:—

"There was nae burns but only three— One at the breast, twa at the knee." It ended the discussion. There was no man there profane enough to say any word against a thing which Robert Burns had settled. There are people who think that honesty is always the best policy. This is a superstition."

The Austrian Empress.

The old adage that a Christmas eve child is born to sorrow is illustrated in the case of the empress of Austria, who was born on the 24th of December, 1837. The Duchess Elizabeth of Bavaria was married to Francis Joseph of Austria at the early age of 16, and was then considered the loveliest woman in Europe. She was not well received by the great families of Austria, who thought that the emperor should have chosen a bride from a more famous house than a collateral branch of the Wittelsbachs of Bavaria. The Hungarians, however, went mad with enthusiasm over their beautiful queen and throughout her reign have remained her devoted slaves. She was passionately fond of riding and for long spent a portion of each year in the hunting fields of England and Ireland. The breakdown of her health compelled her first to forego this pleasure, and then she was debarred from fencing and even from her mountaining excursions. The unhappy marriage of her only son and the refusal of the pope and the emperor to consent to his divorce preyed upon her mind, and since his tragic death years ago at Mayerling she has led the life of a recluse.—San Francisco Argonaut.

Carson and the Buffalo.

Kit Carson while with Fremont's expedition had an experience similar to that of a tiger hunter in India when the tiger hunts the hunter.

While hunting to get "meat" for the expedition Carson chased a buffalo bull. On coming up to the bull's side Carson fired just as his horse stepped into a prairie dog hole. Kit went 15 feet over the horse's head.

The bull, maddened by the bullet, which had struck low under the shoulder, chased the hunter, who ran toward the river. It was a race for life, a case of nip and tuck as to which should reach the river first. Kit got there and leaped from the bank just as the bull stopped on the brink, shaking its head.

Kit swam round and round. The bull watched. Then a companion cropt up, "hot the animal, and Kit crawled on shore, skinned the buffalo, cut off its haunch and out it its tongue.—Youth's Companion.

Effectually Done.

"Do you have your shirts done up at a laundry?" asked Hojoad. "I do," replied Tomdick, "and it requires only about three washings to do them up very exhaustively."—Detroit Free Press.

The Unexpected.

Laura—When Bob proposed last night, did you know what was coming? Lucretia—No, I didn't know papa was within hearing; neither did Bob. Poor Bob—Yonkers Statesman.

Kentucky's Freakish Well.

"One of the most remarkable natural wonders I ever saw," said a gentleman from the Purchase today, "is an old unused well on the Tennessee river, down in our country.

"Nobody knows who dug the well or why it was ever dug, as it is not near any farmhouse or village. But the unusual thing about it is its freakishness. For instance, last summer, during the drought, when water was at a premium, I went to the well while fishing in the neighborhood and found it over half full of the coldest limestone aqua pura I ever drank. But every fall and winter the well goes dry, and there is seemingly no stream from which the well can draw its supply of water. An old man who lives near by told me that last summer was the only time he had ever known limestone water to rise in the well.

"Why," said the old river man in speaking of the mysterious well, "I have drawn the very best of iron mineral water out of it at one time and white sulphur at another. The negroes say the well is haunted because steam rises from it in the winter time, when there is not a drop of water in it. The blacks shun it as they would the boss denizens of the infernal regions, swearing the water is poisoned and that a draft from it means death to him who swallows the potion. And it is as queer and freakish a spot as ever I saw."—Louisville Post.

Until recent years our bakers had not improved upon the method used in the bakeries of Pompeii—viz, by burning wood in the floor of the oven itself until the proper temperature had been reached, then cleaning out and introducing the loaves. Nowadays our large bakeries are fitted with ovens heated with fuel, gas or steam.

The Trans-Mississippi and International Congress is composed of delegates from every State and Territory West of the Mississippi river. The idea of this exposition originated in that Congress at its session at Omaha in 1895, and the project has become a National enterprise and the National Commission has been organized and is in active service, there being one commissioner for each of the several departments of the Government. Most of the Trans-Mississippi States are well along in the way of gathering exhibits from their respective States and many of them have made liberal appropriations, while others are preparing exhibits through private enterprise.

Vice-President H. B. Maxson of Reno, has made arrangements whereby he can get Nevada exhibits, shipped from any point in the State along the line of the C. P. R. R., to Omaha and return, and he requests all persons who wish the interests of the State advertised, to co-operate with the Exposition County Commissioner of his county, whose name is shown above, and prepare some product of his county and send it to the nearest point on the C. P. R. R. from which place it will be sent to Omaha and exhibited, and returned to the same point at the close of the exposition, free of expense to the exhibitor. Full information should accompany everything sent for exhibition. Before sending anything to the line of the railroad a full description should be given to the Exposition Commissioner of the county, who in turn will notify the Vice-President, who will notify him what action to take, otherwise there might be many duplications. Apply to your County Representative for further information, and don't let this opportunity of advertising the resources of Nevada be lost.

SPAIN'S ALLEGED WRONGS.

The Spanish Government has sent a memorandum to all the Spanish Ambassadors to be submitted to foreign governments. This memorandum sets forth the grievances of Spain, showing that she has done to avoid war, and if war ensues the responsibility is entirely upon the United States. This circular is the last appeal made to the great powers of Europe to intervene in her behalf, and save the kingdom from ruin. If it fails in the end object then war is inevitable, the first gun fired will be the signal for the liberation of Cuba and to Rio and the end of Spanish rule on the continent discovered by Spanish explorers.

It is true that Spain has done all in her power to avert war with the United States? Do not the facts disprove the assertion? The destruction of the Maine and of the lives of 266 American sailors in Spanish waters is not the fault of the United States, but the United States is blamed for firing the vessel to Havana. The sinking of over 200,000 destitute Cubans in the towns garrisoned by Spanish soldiers, and starving them to death, cannot be attributed to the United States. Is Spain justified in perpetrating such atrocities and has she any right against the United States demanding that they shall cease? A farmer should corral a herd of wild and slowly starve them to death, and a neighbor would have a right to interfere and prevent such brutality. In corals and starves her subject an island within three or four hours of the United States, and our government would be lacking in the common attributes of civilization if it did not intervene and end such savagery.

Is the destruction of the Maine a sufficient cause for war and the forerunner of our Government in avenging the assassination of 266 of her officers and enlisted men can scarcely be considered commendable. The United States have made no effort to bring the assassins to justice, and the disavowal of all knowledge of the submarine mine, do not deny that the mine was placed in the harbor for a very purpose for which it was intended. Had a Jackson, not a creature of the gold trust, been in the White House, he would immediately demand of Spain that the officers who placed and fired the mine that destroyed the Maine, be hanged high as Haman or he would bombard Havana and reduce it to ashes.

Spain has no just cause for complaint against the United States unless be that our Government did not recognize the Cubans as belligerents a year or two ago and save it the expense has incurred in the vain endeavor to quell the insurrection.

MONEY FOR WAR PURPOSES.
War with Spain is now inevitable, less one of three things occur, these are:
First—The withdrawal by Spain of her land and naval forces from Cuban waters.
Second—The surrender of the Cuban insurgents to the Spanish authorities and the immediate pacification of the island.
Third—The failure of the President of the United States to use the military and naval forces of the country to enforce the demands of Congress. As it is not probable that any of these things will happen war with Spain can be averted only by a miracle, and it is conceded that the age of miracles is past.

Money is an essential in modern warfare and war is expensive. About $50,000,000 has already been expended in preparing for war and when hostilities begin the requirements of the army and navy will necessitate an outlay of $2,000,000 a day. To meet this expenditure the mints should be set at work at once coining the $100,000,000 in silver bars now lying idle in the Treasury vaults. Silver coins are very acceptable to the masses of the people at any time and they will be particularly in war times when depreciated paper money is generally the only medium of exchange. In addition to coining the silver in the Treasury a popular loan, which will give the general public opportunity to invest in government securities, will be in order. Bonds in denominations of fifty and one hundred dollars can be placed on sale at any money order Postoffice where the people may purchase them without inconvenience with lawful money. The bonds should not be sold in million-dollar lots to syndicates, but every person who has from $50 up to a few thousands to invest should be given opportunity to buy bonds. It is believed that all the money necessary to carry on the war, until the Spanish forces are driven from the Western Hemisphere, can be supplied by the coining of the silver in the Treasury and by a popular loan in which people limited means can invest at any money order Postoffice. Then, when war is over, those who are taxed to pay the obligations incurred during the war will get the interest on the bonds, instead of foreign syndicates, and the money will remain at home.

Hull's volunteer militia bill passed the House yesterday.

WAR NEWS.

The cabinet assembled at the White House early yesterday morning. The note to Spain was immediately taken up and the draft was read by Secretary Sherman.

Representative Mercer left the White House during the conference and gave out that the ultimatum would be short, sharp and decisive and will bring matters to a prompt issue.

The President signed the resolutions at 11:24 yesterday morning and Congress was immediately notified and the announcement was greeted with applause.

At 11:50 yesterday morning the ultimatum was cabled to Minister Woodford at Madrid direct from the White House. The note to Woodford transmits the full text of the resolutions and the determination of the President to enforce them. No set time was given for Spain to reply, but in all probability it will not be long in coming, and the President expects Spain's answer will be unfavorable.

Minister Woodford was instructed to await forty-eight hours after delivering the ultimatum to the Spanish Government before asking for his passport unless given to him before that time.

In the event of Spain's answer being unfavorable Woodford will immediately demand his passport.

Senator Barnate, the Spanish Minister at Washington, asked for his passport and it was promptly given him by the President. This fact is considered very significant and virtually amounts to a reply that Spain will make no concessions.

The Queen Regent in her speech yesterday declared she had called the Cortez together to defend Spanish honor.

War preparations are going on rapidly and troops are moving south and west. Army and navy officers think hostilities will begin without further formalities.

AUTHOR OF "BEN HUR" TENDERS HIS SERVICES

General Lew Wallace to Battle for His Country.

General Lew Wallace, of Indiana, who has gained world-wide fame as the author of "Ben Hur," has sent the following letter to President McKinley, according to the San Francisco Examiner.

"In view of the certainty of war with Spain, I have tendered the National Government my services in the field. That I have been a candidate for United States Senator may subject this action on my part to misconception, so I beg to announce my withdrawal from the Senatorial race. To the many Republicans who have given me their support I offer my hearty thanks and most grateful acknowledgments.

NEWSPAPER ARCHIVE

A CARD.

THIS CARD IS GIVEN BY THE Physicians' Supplies and Chemical Company for the purpose of introducing their new remedies. It entitles the holder to a free examination and advice by their medical director, Daniel McSwegan, M. D., the ex-President of the California County Medical Society, who has returned from visiting the great hospitals of the world, and brings with him the medal of the International Medical Congress. His success in treating chronic and private diseases of both sexes is unquestioned. His new treatment for catarrh, lung, liver and kidney diseases is far in advance of the older methods, and rheumatic and nervous diseases are cured in from one to three visits. Piles, fistula and stricture can be cured at home without the use of the knife or caustic.

Dr. McSwegan is now in Reno by invitation, and will give free examinations until April 30th, to all who are in any way afflicted. Ladies will be told their diseases without any exposure. Men, weak from any private cause, restored to health and vigor. Oxytubercule will be used in appropriate cases. Parents who are interested in the question of sex should consult the doctor.

London Bridge.

The Britons themselves were quite unable to construct a bridge of any kind unless in the primitive methods observed at Post bridge and Two bridges, on Dartmoor, by a slab of stone laid across two bowlders. The work, therefore, was certainly undertaken by Roman engineers. We have, in the next place, to inquire what kind of bridge was built at that time by the Romans. They built bridges of wood and of stone. Many of these stone bridges still remain; in other cases the pieces of hewn stone still remain. The bridge over the Thames, however, was of wood. This is proved by the fact that had it been of the solid Roman construction in stone the piers would be still remaining; also by the fact that London had to be contented with a wooden bridge till the year 1176, when the first bridge of stone was commenced.

Considerations as to the comparative insignificance of London in the first century, as to the absence of stone in the neighborhood and as to the plentiful supply of the best wood in the world from the forests north of the city confirm the theory that the bridge was built of wood. We have only, therefore, to learn how Roman engineers built bridges of wood elsewhere in order to know how they built a bridge of wood over the Thames.—Pall Mall Gazette.

Macaroni is taken from a Greek derivation which means "the blessed food" in allusion to the ancient custom of eating it at feasts for the dead.

Heat and Fuel Savers.

How long are you going to "get along" with that old cookstove that burns more fuel than a furnace and heats the outdoors more than it does the oven?

A very little money will buy one of our cookstoves—you'll save the price in fuel in one season. It will keep the heat where it ought to be, and cook your food as it ought to be cooked. Come in and examine them.

"Young man," says an exchange, "when you leer at a lady passing along the street or haunt or startle her with your glances, does it ever occur to you that some other scoundrel might insult your sister, your wife or in coming years your daughter in the same manner? THE QUARANTINE STATION.

The Railroad People Want It Near Reno.

A. D. Shepherd, General Freight Agent of the Southern Pacific Company, having been informed of the action of the Board of Health establishing a quarantine station at Verdi, telegraphed Governor Sadler as follows:

"SAN FRANCISCO, April 20, 1898.—Your dispatch regarding quarantine station at Verdi received. We have no corals nor chutes for such accommodations at Verdi, and would ask that you kindly permit the quarantine station to be located at Reno, and we will provide a special corral for that purpose. Not at the ordinary corral now opposite those managed by Mr. Parry, but half a mile east of that point. We will have to spend $300 to put the corral in condition, which we will do at once, if you will make the quarantine station at that point. Reno is naturally the distributing point for north, east south and west. If satisfactory this will keep California stock entirely separated from other stock that would usually go into the corral at Reno."

"A. D. SHEPHERD."

The Governor replied that the matter was wholly in the hands of the Board of Health, with whom he should communicate on the subject. It would doubtless be more convenient to have the station near Reno, if there was no danger of infection, but it remains for the Board of Health to say where it shall be established as the law empowers the Board, and the Board only, to act in the matter.

What Colonel Maxson is Doing.

We are in receipt of a letter from Col. H. B. Maxson, in which he tells what is being done in the other counties of the State in the matter of exhibits at the Omaha exposition. From the Comstock will be sent a large collection of the average ores of all the different kinds to be found in that district. From Churchill county will be sent salt from the Eagle works and cobalt, nickel, iron, antimony and gypsum. From Humboldt county there will be copper from Golconda, showing stages from the ores, down through the working of it, to the pure metal, as well as the slag, showing the final condition of fluxes. Also a fine collection of sulphur. From Elko there will be sent a liberal display of the natural mineral soap to be found on the North Fork of the Humboldt, and Col. Maxson is at present in that county, work up a mineral and agricultural exhibit. Last week he was at Boreka, where considerable interest was manifested.

The work which Col. Maxson has done and is doing in the interest of Nevada's connection with this Exposition, is deserving of the highest praise. He is spending both time and money to make our exhibit a success, and the people of this county and the whole State should not hold back, but help the work along.—White Pine News

"The Naval Cadet."

The discovery of genius is more frequently the result of accident than of discernment. In no pursuit is this more clearly demonstrated than in the finding of recruits for the stage. Mrs. Leslie Carter, Mrs. Cora Brown Potter, Robert Hilliard and a host of others well known to the stage, might never have had an opportunity to delight the public but for the accident that revealed that ability. And so has the accident of Corbett's whipping Sullivan, which caused the demand to see him on the stage, demonstrated that he has the greatest abilities as an actor, of which the amusement loving public of this city will have an opportunity to judge on next Wednesday night, April 27th, at the Opera House, when Mr. James J. Corbett, assisted by an excellent company of players, will appear in the successful comedy-drama, "A Naval Cadet." The play will be placed upon the stage here with all of the original scenery, mechanical effects, etc., as used during its run at the Academy of Music, New York City.

The town has been elaborately decorated and a reception committee was to meet all delegates at Colfax with Gayne's Band and escort them to their destination. Through the columns of the Nevada City Herald the guests were bid welcome and closed with,—"Help yourselves, ladies and gentlemen. The town is yours."

State Superintendent Outing left for Hawthorne and will accompany the remains of his father to this place and will be joined at Carson by Mrs. Cutting and Mr. and Mrs. Beebe. The remains will arrive this evening and the hour of funeral will be noticed in next issue.

Quite a Difference.

A. C. Nicholas, a native born Frenchman, who has only been a citizen of the United States for two years, called at the JOURNAL office last evening and stated that in the event of war between the United States and Spain, he desired to be notified, and would immediately enlist in the United States army in defense of his adopted country. Mr. Nicholas leaves for the north this morning, to work near Amedee, and will be somewhat isolated from regular mail, hence his request.

Before he had left the office a leading Italian came in and asked that a notice "To Resident Italians" be published, and it will be found in another part of this issue and is self explanatory.

There is quite a difference if the question of loyalty is taken into consideration. The former is willing to show his pride of his American citizenship, while as regards the latter, the inference to be drawn at such a critical time, is that the number of bona fide Italian citizens will be wonderfully less than during a period just prior to an election.

To Italian Residents.

The Secretary of Foreign Affairs of Italy has cabled the Italian Minister at Washington, recommending that all Italian residents of the United States, who are not citizens, remain neutral in the possible trouble between the United States and Spain, and in no event interfere, and in case of war to recognize and respect the laws of the country in which they are now residents.

SHRINKAGE IN SHARE PRICES.

Lowest Ebb Reached in History of the Comstock Lode.

At yesterday's latest San Francisco Stock Exchange quotations the shares in the entire list of mines on the Comstock Lode could have been purchased for about $1,000,000, a less sum than the cost of the pumping plant at the Union Consolidated shaft or several others of equal capacity now lying idle along the lode, not to mention the expensive steam hoist plants with which most of the mines are equipped. The only stocks in the list that are quoted above $1 per share were Sierra Nevada and Occidental. At no time in the history of the lode have the prices of the entire Comstock list simultaneously reached such a low ebb.—Virginia Chronicle

Tunnel Under Pike's Peak.

Workmen lately began in Colorado the longest tunnel in the world. It will begin near Colorado City and extend under Pike's Peak and other mountains to a point six miles south of Cripple Creek. The main tunnel will be twenty miles long, and the lateral tunnels will make thirty miles more. Progress is being made in the work at the rate of thirty feet a day. It is thought it will take at least seven years to complete the tunnel. The main tunnel will pass directly under the cone of Pike's Peak at a depth of nearly 7,000 feet, and 3,700 beneath the town of Victor. Its average depth from the surface will be 2,800 feet and it is designed to test the mineral deposits of the territory at these great depths. Under present circumstances the distance—the shortest way—from Colorado Springs to Cripple Creek is fifty-four miles. By way of the tunnel the two cities will only be sixteen miles apart. The total probable expense of digging the tunnel and its subsidiary branches will be $200,000,000. All of this sum the tunnel people expect to crush out of the ore their workmen will break while excavating, or glean from the nuggets which may fall out of secret pockets so far below the earth's surface.

A Lesson in Political Life.

The application for a disability pension by John A. Bingham, of Ohio, furnishes a sad but instructive object lesson on the practical results of political life in this country.

Mr. Bingham's public record in brief is that he served sixteen years in Congress, and was appointed judge-advocate with the rank of major by President Lincoln, who also appointed him United States Solicitor for the Court of claims. He likewise served twelve years as Minister to Japan.

This is an unusually successful political career, but at the age of 83, nearly helpless, physically and mentally, is in such straitened circumstances that he is glad to accept the relief of a private pension bill granting him $25 a month. It is sometimes noted that it is hard to induce the best class of citizens to enter political life.—Exchange

War Will Injure the South.

Mrs. Jefferson Davis, in a letter to a friend says: "The brunt of the war will be borne by our people, (that is the people of the south) while the contracts will all be in the north. There must be some outcome for us, but I cannot see it. Our cities on the sea coast will be destroyed, and we must pay our percentage of pensions." She says that she would not mind it if the destruction of the Maine was the cause, but she hates to have war on account of sympathy for that miserable malatto race in Cuba.

WATER WORKS AND

BONDS.

THE CITY OF RENO WAS INCORPOR- ated by a special Act of the Legislature of the State of Nevada, approved March 8, 1897. It is the largest city on the line of the Central Pacific Railroad between Sacramento, California, and Ogden, Utah, has had a steady and continuous growth ever since its inception and is situated in the midst of the richest agricultural and stock raising country between the Sierra Nevada and the Rocky mountains. Its resources are agricultural and pastoral rather than those of mines. It is the terminus of the V. & T. R. R. extending south with its connection three hundred and fifty miles, and also of the N. C. & O. R. R. extending north eighty miles. It is the seat of the State University, of the State Hospital for Mental Diseases, and of the State Agricultural Society. At the general election of 1896 it cast 1300 votes and its present estimated population is 6,500. Its assessed valuation in the year 1897 was the sum of $1,745-800 which was upon a low and very conservative basis of valuation. Its total bonded indebtedness from all sources is $45,000. The total rate of taxation in the year 1897 for State, county, and local purposes was $2.87
on each one hundred dollars valuation.
By its Incorporation Act the City is authorized, subject to an affirmative vote of its electors to issue its bonds in a sum not exceeding $150,000 for procuring water and constructing municipal water works, and in a necessary sum for constructing municipal electric light works. A special election was called by the City Council for October 7, 1897 at which election the electors of the city voted in favor of bonding the city in the sum of $130,000 for municipal water works and in the sum of $20,000 for a municipal electric light plant by a vote of 409 in favor of and 130 against.
In December 1897 an action in quo warranto
was instituted in the Supreme Court of Nevada by Mr. A. G. Fletcher in which the constitutionality of the Incorporation Act was assailed upon twelve distinct grounds and also in which the legality, regularity, and sufficiency
of the special election held on October 7, 1897, was questioned. On the 23rd day of February 1898, the Supreme Court of Nevada filed its unanimous opinion in the action in which it sustained the constitutionality of the Incorporation Act, and the legality, regularity, and the sufficiency of the special election, in each and every particular. The City Council is authorized by law to raise the necessary funds with which to meet the bond interest charges and to liquidate the principal by either direct taxation of all property or by water and light charges against users or by both.

Rag Offerings.

The singular custom of leaving rags
and other worthless objects at wells has not entirely fallen into disuse. The superstition in a modified form exists in other portions of the world. A traveler in Persia found a tree with rags tied to its branches. They had been left there by the inhabitants of a province infected with ague. A tree hung with rags was found by another traveler in Africa. Crooked pins, old clothes, pelbles, shells, rusty nails, small coins,
and even bundles of heath were considered appropriate thank offerings at shrines in earlier days, for it was believed that the saints and apostles did not care for articles of value.

Such was the superstitious adoration of fountains that it was forbidden by the sixteenth of the canons issued in 800, in the reign of King Edgar, and it was condemned by the canons of St.
Anselm. It was also interdicted by laws passed in the reign of King Canute.
Since the reformation the practice has not been prevalent, except in Ireland, where many old wells consecrated to saints and martyrs are yet made places of pilgrimage. There is scarcely a parish throughout the land that has not its own holy well where, despite practical admonition, the faithful and the faithless come to pray for physical or mental relief and leave behind them a scrap of rag as an offering.—Godey's Magazine.

Character in Footgear.

"Shoes," said the aggressive philosopher to the meek looking woman, "always acquire the traits of their wearer.
The old proverb about 'wear at the toe, spend as you go,' etc., is only a tenth part of what a worn shoe can tell of its owner's disposition. Now look at mine.
Like me, ain't they?"

They were. Stubby, square, thick, self opinionated looking boots, they seemed to breathe aggressiveness from every seam.

"Now let's see yours." The demure looking woman poked one shoe out timidly. It was long and narrow, with a very pointed toe. It was a stiff, slim, unbending sort of shoe. The reader of character in footgear looked dubious.

"Hem! Perhaps you are not like your shoe," he said evasively. "But I believe in the science, and so I don't think it would be safe for me to tell you what I read in the indications. We—we might both regret it. Good morning!"
—New York Commercial Advertiser.

Why She Wanted a Pint.

Ethel is small, but extremely sober minded and therefore to be trusted to run on household errands.

The other day her mother called her from her play and said, "Ethel, I want you to run over to the grocer's and get me a quart of vinegar."

Ethel looked thoughtful and hesitated. "I'd rather get a pint, mamma,"
she answered.

"Why, Ethel, dear?" exclaimed her astonished parent. "I need a quart, which you must get."

Again the little girl paused. "No,"
she said, "I'll get you a pint."

"I'm surprised at you. Why should you buy a pint when I wish a quart?"
insisted the mother.

"Because," answered Ethel, the tears beginning to come, "I can say pint, and I can't say quart!"—New York Sun.

Not Worried About His Ancestors.

"I can trace my ancestors back to 100 years before William the Conqueror."
"Well, I can't trace mine that far,
but I haven't the slightest doubt that some of them were living even earlier than that."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Faithful to His Word.

Nell—I thought you said May's fiancé was a white haired octogenarian? His hair is jet black.

Belle—Ah, that's what he meant,
then, when he said he would dye for her.—Philadelphia Record.
